INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

The Citadel Multi-Strategy H4 Retail Hedge Fund is a multi-strategy, multi-asset class, South African hedge fund which has the objective of generating consistent, uncorrelated returns.

POLICY

The fund will invest in different asset classes and apply different strategies in order to maximise decorrelation with traditional asset classes. The portfolio may invest across asset classes as well as in both physical and synthetic positions in asset classes (the latter via derivatives), and use derivatives to enable effective portfolio management and construction. The fund may also invest in unlisted assets as well as other collective investment scheme portfolios. The manager may use leverage in the fund either via borrowing or derivatives. To this end the commitment approach will be used to ensure that leverage is contained within 200% of the total net asset value of the fund relative to the market.

Legal structure of the portfolio

The portfolio is established as a trust by way of a supplemental deed to the main deed of the scheme, executed by the manager and the trustee/custodian and approved by the Financial Sector Conduct Authority in terms of the Collective Investment Schemes Control Act, 2002. The assets of the portfolio may be held by the trustee/custodian or by another bank or by the nominee of the portfolio's prime broker.

Risk warning

The risk and return profile of a fund illustrates the amount of risk undertaken by an investor in the hope of achieving a particular return on an investment. The generally accepted principle is that potential return rises with an increase in risk. The risk and return profile on the face of this document is based on the historical performance of the fund. In addition to the risk warnings included elsewhere in this document, it is important to note that there are many other risks associated with investing in collective investments. These can include but are not limited to the following: general market risks (such as general movements in interest rates; external factors [war, natural disasters and such like]; changes to the law and regulatory frameworks; governmental policy changes; global, regional or national economic developments), risks related to a specific security (like the possibility of a company's credit rating being downgraded); and loss in the purchasing power of an investment as a result of an increase in the price of consumer goods (known as inflationary risks).

The portfolio may invest in foreign securities. There are potential material risks associated with investing in foreign securities. These include but are not limited to: potential constraints on liquidity and the repatriation of funds, macroeconomic risks, political and social instability, foreign exchange risks, tax risks, settlement risks and potential limitations on the availability of market information, all of which may have an impact on fund performance. In addition, risks associated with investing in emerging markets (which are generally less mature than those in developed markets) include but are not limited to currency risks, the possibility of expropriation, confiscatory taxation or nationalisation of assets and the establishment of foreign exchange controls which may include the suspension of the ability to transfer currency from a given country.

Hedge funds use complex hedging strategies that include the use of leverage to increase the exposure of the portfolio beyond the capital that is employed to an investment. Leveraging includes the use of derivatives. Derivatives derive their value from the value of an underlying asset. The use of leveraging within a portfolio involves risk because depending on how the leveraging is structured, the portfolio's losses or gains may be unlimited. Other risks include counterparty risk and liquidity risk. Counterparty risk is the risk that the other party to a transaction may not be able to perform their obligations. Liquidity risk means that during volatile periods, the tradability of certain instruments may be impeded. A retail hedge fund portfolio's gross exposure to the market may be up to a maximum of 200% of the total net asset value of the portfolio.

General disclosures

This document is the minimum disclosure document required by Board Notice 92 of 2014 published under the Collective Investment Schemes Control Act 45 of 2002. This portfolio was established for a specific group of investors and may not be available for direct investment by the general public. Collective investment schemes are generally medium to long-term investments. The value of participatory interests or the investment may go down as well as up. Past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance. Collective Investment schemes are traded at ruling prices and can engage in borrowing and scrip lending. A schedule of fees and charges and maximum commission is available on request from the manager. No performance fees are currently levied in any of the portfolios by the manager. Neither the manager nor Citadel provides any guarantee either with respect to the capital or the return of the portfolio. The manager has the right to close the portfolio to all new investments or to new investors in order to manage it more efficiently in accordance with its mandate. Where any forecasts or commentary about the expected future performance of asset classes or the market in general are made in this document, please note that neither Citadel nor H4 guarantee that such forecasts or commentary will occur.

Performance disclosures

The performance calculated and shown is that of the portfolio. Individual investor performances may differ as a result of initial fees (if applicable), the actual investment date, the date of reinvestment and dividend withholding tax. Where periods of longer than one year are used in calculating past performance, certain figures may be annualised. Annualisation is the conversion of a rate of any length of time into a rate that is reflected on an annual basis. All since-inception performance returns are calculated from the launch date of the portfolio.

Disclosures in respect of third-party-named portfolios

This portfolio is a third-party-named portfolio. A third-party-named portfolio bears the name of both the manager and the investment manager. The manager retains full legal responsibility for the third-party-named portfolio.

Calculation of the NAV and price

The value of participatory interests is calculated on a NAV basis. The NAV is the total value of all assets in the portfolio including any income accruals and less any deductible expenses (which may include audit fees, brokerage, service fees, securities transfer tax and bank charges). The price of participatory interests is calculated by dividing the NAV by the number of participatory interests in issue. The portfolio is available via certain LSPs, who levy their own fees. Investors in this portfolio may thus be liable for an initial fee and/or annual service fee levied by the third party administrator that is not reflected in the initial charge (where applicable) or NAV calculation.
